

Here's what's happening at Westlane's snow show

In just a few weeks, the student council of Westlane is going to start something big. It is called 'Snow Job '72' and is not the evaluation of this week's exams. Instead, it involves a week of festivities at Westlane. In some circles, this would be known as a winter carnival. It will take place Feb. 7-11.

Although there are a few surprises in store for the participating student, I am permitted to tell my readers a little bit about what's on the agenda.

First, there are plans to provide dozens of huge chunks of snow on the football field. I hope the weather will give us a little help on this one. The idea here is that contestants will use these snow piles to create sculpture. The sculpturing will be allowed to continue throughout the week and will be judged on Friday.

Monday evening, a sports-teacher event is to take place. This is the beginning of the annual Powder Puff hockey tournament and, as usual, Westlane has raised a fine team, which has been practising very early in the mornings for quite some time. Unfortunately, I don't know too much else about our puck-chasing females, so how about letting me hear from you, girls, for next week's column?

Wednesday night, it is the drama club's turn to be showcased. It's too bad our curtains won't be fixed by then, but the evening will still be an enjoyable one. You see, it is drama night Feb. 9, the annual event which features one-act plays put on by Westlane students. This year, there will be four of them. There is a lot of effort going into these productions, so I hope they will be put on before a full-house audience.

The Hootenanny, also an annual event, is scheduled for Thursday night of Snow Job '72. The Hootenanny is an evening of entertainment provided by the talented personalities at our school. Plans for all the different things set to happen at the Hootenanny are still tentative, so I'll let you know in a few weeks. Anyway, if popular opinion is considered, it will be a delightful evening.

A triple-header basketball game against our perpetual arch-rival, the Stamford Hornets, is the highlight for Friday, the last day of Snow Job '72. The midget Spartans won at Stamford last week, and a repeat would really be great. The seniors were beaten rather badly by the Hornets the same day, and will be looking for revenge.

The most interesting contest may well prove to be the juniors. In their first meeting at the Stamford gym in December, our team was annihilated 76-26. At last Friday's game, however, the score was a lot closer, Westlane losing by only five baskets, 48-38. The rematch Feb. 11 ought to be a hard fought battle. With my somewhat biased viewpoint, I predict a Westlane win.

There will be more to Snow Job '72, and you're sure to read about it on coming weekends.

I forgot to mention last week that at the Christmas assembly, Teresa Johnson and Tom Woodward presented a cheque for $1,781.50 to a representative from the United Appeal. This is the money we raised at our starve-a-thon in November. I'm sure that all who contributed were most pleased to have taken part in this worthwhile donation to our community. We'll certainly try again next year.

Now it's time for all you students to put the paper down and study for the exams next week. So, good luck!
